Arrival of the Steamship Atlantic. HEAVY PAILURES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The steamship Atlantic arrived hast evening, with Liverpool dates to the 11th ult. She brings $128,000.

On Saturday, the 7th, shortly after the departure of the Niagara, the suspension of Dennistown & Co., one of the largest firms connected with the American trade in Great Britain, was announced. Their liabilities are estimated at something like £270,000 sterling. The head establishment of the house is in Glasgow, branches in London, Liverpool, New York, New Orleans, and Melbourne, Australia.

The Melbourne firm is not compromised. The almost total cessation of remittances from America was the immediate cause of the suspension. The private property of the partners is of great magnitude, and it is presumed that the embarrassment will be but temporary.

The funds were buoyant throughout the day and advances of half per cent. in consols took place. Taxations of discount at bank continued extremely heavy. At Hamburg the rate of discount had advanced to 94 per cent.

On Monday the 9th, the Bank of England raised its rate of discount from 9 to 10 per cent. The Western Bank of Scotland, as Glasgow, with a paid up capital of one million five hundred thousand pounds and deposits supposed to amount to six millions sterling, closed its doors on the 9th. This Bank maintained an immense business in Glasgow, and had about a hundred branches scattered over Scotland.—The suspension caused great dismay, but as the proprietary numbers many very wealthy men, no individual loss is feared.—The bank had active connection with America and with American houses in Glasgow. The suspension of Bemoch, Peentyman & Rigg, of London and Manchester, England, in the silk trade, was also announced; liabilities, 2300,000 to £400,000. The funds on Monday, notwithstanding adverse influences, exhibited much steadiness, and although consols declined a quarter, under the influence of the rise in bank sales, a reaction took place.

The American advices had a good effect.—They was an absence of gold withdrawals from the bank, and exportation of silver measiness, but the applications for discounts were still very pressing.

The London joint stock banks with an exception, refused to increase the allowance to depositors beyond 8 per cent. The following failures were reported: Babcock & Co., of Liverpool, Glasgow and New York, a surplus of assets confidently expected, liabities £200, 000; Henry Dukhill & Co., of Liverpool; Jas. Foote & Sons, silk manufacturers, of London, with liabilities of more than £40,000, assets fully equal.

The Schedule provides that the voting shall be done by ballot, and that "every white male habitant of the Territory in Kansas, upon that day, who is over the age of 21 years may vote." These votes being folded up, the Judges of Election can not refuse to take and deposit them in the ballot box, though they may not count them. But as the whole number of votes cast will be known, it will not be difficult to ascertain how many were cast against the Bogus Constitution. Sworn states be prepared and forwarded to Manous J. Then, if Con gress sees fit to accept a Constitution which the people have rejected, the fearful consequences will rest upon each Northern member who sanc-

We submit these views for the considerall of our friends in Kansas, feeling confident, how. ever, that after weighing the subject in all its bearings, they will adopt the wisest course of action which the case admits.

one you propose. It is easy to talk flippantly of the sanctity of the grave, and to increase popular prejudice by denoun-sing every disturbance of the dead as the work of "Hyenas" and Barbarians.

But it is one of the plainest principles of law, that the criminality of an act or its non-criminality must be determined by the motives that induced its com-mittal, and its effect upon the life, property or health of others. For any citzen to commit an act which is directly calculated to injure the health or property of another, is plainly criminal, even if the motive which impelled him to its committal was actual sunger or extreme destitation. The criminality would consist in the trespass upon the rights of others. Again, if a citizen should commit an act which disregarded the moral sense and pence of the the grave and leaving the body exposed and muti-lated, it would be highly criminal. But if the body was obtained as carefully and with as little disturb-ance of the public peace as possible, and used solely for the purpose of gaining such knowledge as would be of essential benefit to the living, it would be a pretty action. pretty active imagination to recognize in that act either criminality or injustice. Ferney on the Lecompton Co

The drift of all the news from Kansas, in mail and telegraph, shows conclusively in the so-called pro-slavery Constitutional Covention, like other bodies of whom we have adags that "whom the gods wish to destict they first make mad." Some of the proportions presented to that Convention—which, it remembered, represents a mere fragment the voters of the Territory—would disgrace despotism, others are merely ridiculous, which whole affair looks to us, at this distance, if the parties engaged in it had entered into the whole affair looks to us, at this distance, is if the parties engaged in it had entered into a contract to mortgage the new State to their own individual interests for a century to come There is a consistent disregard of the people manifested, a cool resort to trick, and an utter shamelessness, which altogether make up astire upon representative bodies such as we have never before had the luxury to enjoy. The leading spirit in this Constitutional Convent seems to be a person called "Ge leading spirit in this Constitutional Convention seems to be a person called "General Calhoun," who was appointed fron the free State of Illinois by General Pierce as Surveyor General of Kansse and Nebraska, and who in all his actions indicates a desire to imitate rather the character of a member of the French Senate employed to carry out the designs of Louis Napoleon than the representative of an honest American constituency.

We give in another column some of the doings of this Convention; and have only to say that if the Constitution fabricated by this body is sent to Congress we trust that short work will be made of it. It deserves nothing but contempt. If it has a single merit it is its consistency with the fraud and wrong which it is intended to perpetuate, and from which in great part it has grown. The idea of a set of men chosen as delegates to this Convention attempting to bind posterity to their work, and daring to nullify, in advance, the will of the majority, is so monstrous that we wonder the outrage did not excite the whole people to sivil war.—The usurpation becomes the more amazing when we reflect that those very men who are trying to fix upon the Territory the rule of a minority were vociferous in denouncing the Topeks Constitution, which set out with asserting a similar principle, and was repudiated by Congress and the country.

In speaking of doings like these we feel that it is idle to mince phrases, and we sincerely hope that if the constitution of Kansas is anything like the instrument it promises to be, from the intelligence we lay before our readers this morning, it will, when presented to the Congress of the United States, be thrown out of both branches by a unanimous vote. At any rate we trust that the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania will boildy and at once put their feet upon it and spura it as it deserves to be spurned.

The Political Crisis in Hexico. Accounts from Mexico to the 4th inst. shot the condition of the country is trouble and unhappy in the extreme. The government of Comonfort, one of the most liberal and engitemed men ever elevated to power in the public, is assailed on all sides by revolutions. ntrigues and menaces from hostile Indian tri to such an extent that the last resort of con tutional governments has been invoked, at Congress called upon to suspend some of the most important guaranties of the constitution and to invest the President temporarily wi and to invest the President temporarily with the powers of a Dictator. Open warfare he been waged for some time against the govern ment—and, indeed, in this country of chronic revolutions it would be difficult to find a time when one portion of the Republic has not beer in arms against the central government—but the recent reverses of the government though a revolution in Yucatan, have precipitated the present crisis. On the Sist of October the government troops, sent in pursuit of the rebel government troops, sent in pursuit of the rebe forces in the vicinity of Cuernavaca, wer decoyed into an ambuscade where they were totally defeated, with the loss of their leader General Gonzales. At Queretaro the government forces were also overpowered by the rev olutionists, in whose hands, at the last accounts the city still remained, and in Yucatan, the population of which is almost entirely Indian population of which is almost entirely Indian, the people have risen as masse against the government. In the south, General Alvarez is engaged in putting down rebellion, while in the north the ravages of the Indians are becoming so formidable as to create the apprehension that the frontier states are about to fail into their hands. Add to this the occasional arrest of comissaries of Santa Ana and rumors of dillers. hands. Add to this the occasional arrest of emissaries of Santa Ana, and rumors of fillbuster expeditions by this notorious exile, and a condition of things is presented which may not only justify the granting of extraordinary powers to the President and Congress, but which forbodes, perhaps, the speedy dissolution of the Mexican Government. The following extraor from the Mexican Extraordisary, of the 4th, contains a melancholy contession of the incapacity for self-government manifested by the Mexican seconds.

"The position of the government at this moment is truly critical. No one can gainary this. We have always said that a legislative form of government was not the thing. Where the sum of general ignorance is so great, the government must be powerful and silent, and the critical position in which the government finds itself is entirely owing to the delay and inaction always consequent upon discussion. It is a singular circumstance in this country that legislation has brought on more disorder than anything cisc. It is, therefore, a favorable sum that the present Congress appreciates this fatal fact."

Among the guaranties of the constitution, which the Congressional Committee, to whom the subject was referred, propose to suspend, are those permitting the people to assemble peaceably, to carry arms, to pass through the country without passports, and to express opin. peaceably, to carry arms, to pass turough secondry without passports, and to express opin fons or publish books on political subjects.

The government is to be empowered to punish political offences by imprisonment or ban political offences by imprisonment or ban be taken ish political offences by Imprisonment or banishment. Private property may also be taken without consent of the owner, leaving to the Executive to decide upon the public utility and necessity, and the terms of indemnification.

Among the powers granted, are those to raise the sum of $5,000,000; to cede right of way between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, across the isthmus of Tehaantepec and by way of Vers Crux; to augment the army very considerably, and to dispose the federal forces in the most advantageous way throughout the national territory, and to exact implicit obcdience from all persons under authority of the general government.

ines not Patentable. n, Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1857 The Commissioner of Patents has rejected the application of John McLarty for letters patent for an improved "policeman's club." patent for an improved "policeman's club." The model of the club is about twelve inches long, is round, and about an inch and a quarter in diameter. It has a smooth and polished surface, and resembles the baton generally horne by police and other officers. Its exterior gives no indication of its real character or capabilities. Its barrel is hollowed, and within it is an ingenious mechanism connected with four longitudinal "spurs or lancets," which lie concealed in the tube. On touching a spring these lancets leap from their hiding-places, and through them, by a single wrench of the weapon, a most fearful mutilation is inflicted on the hand of any adversary who may have grasped it. In the technics of street rencontres, it may then be clubbed, and its lancets made to bury themselves at will in the head and body of the victim.

The Commissioner says that justice to the inventor demands the admission that the mechanism of this "miniature infernal machine" displays sufficient novelty to support a patent. The law, however, in its wisdom, has declared that something beyond mere novelty must be The law, however, in its wisdom, has 'declared that something beyond mere novelty must be established before a patent can issue. The invention must not only be new, but it must be important and useful. Conceding the assumption that this club would be eminently useful to policemen, it is still obvious that this is too limited a measure of utility to satisfy the requirements of the law. An invention, to be patented, must not only be useful to the few, with a chance of being permicious to the many, but it must clearly appear that in view of the interests of the whole community, the good resulting from it would decidedity preponderate but it must clearly appear that in view of the interests of the whole community, the good resulting from it would decidedty preponderate over the evil. If the officers of public justice, and those law abiding citizens who love peace and pursue it, could be induced to defile themselves with this instrument, and its use be restricted to such, it might be comparatively harmless; but when it passes from the workshop of the mechanic who has fashioned it, it is manifestly beyond the control of the government, and will find its way into the service of the brawling profligate as certainly as the stilletto seeks the belt of the bravo. Its manufacture and distribution through society, under the exseeks the boit of the brave. Its manufacture and distribution through society, under the expectation that good would result therefrom, would be an act of folly equalled only by that of strewing our pathway with thorns, in the delasive trust that they would bud and blossom into flowers at our approach. It is harbaroms in its every characteristic, and is as repugnant to the genium of our institutions, and to the morality of that faith in whose shining footpaths our legislation strives to follow, as is the scalping knife of the border savage. After other arguments against granting a patent for this club, the Commissioner concludes by saving: Whether viewed as a weapon of offense or defense, it is adapted to the hands of the most dissolute and the most dastardly, and evidently belongs to the same class as the slung shot of the burglar, and the brazen knuckle of the political ruffian. The national honor would be no more tarnished by granting a patent for the one than for the other.

This resumption is being foreshadowed natural events. To moment that the country banks find the selver strong enough to bear it, and that the are placed beyond danger from the largement of their currency held by the clibants, it will come about.

Premature resumption will only occasion second and a worse suspension. The gradual improvement in the domestic explanges not taking place works in its favor.

NALES TURNED.

One of our most respectable merchants, a partner in a well-known business firm, was so highly pleased with his "balance sheet?" in July, that he decided and gave formal notice to his firm that he should "retire" from business on the first of January next. Early in October the house of which he is a member "suspended." Having a large surplus, they offered at once full payment in merchandise to all their creditors. An avalanche of protested paper, however, soon changed their mind, and they are now offering a compromise of only 30 per cent. Thus swings the pendulum. Put your shoulders to the wheel again, gentlemen. Retire—not yet.

COUNTRY PAPER.

Some of our "conservative" city banks, it well known, always turn up their noses at country paper, i. e. at notes payable at banks in the interior. Of all institutions in the city, the class are now deepest in the mire. The prortion of city paper protested in October, compared with that payable in the country during the same period, is as two to one. Our paper managers will please stick a pin there. bank managers will please stick a pin the and remember that it is a fundamental law finance that the best business paper is it which stands nearest related to the consumer.

Money MARKET.

Money continues to accumulate, both in buand in the hands of a few capitalists, who fi and in the hands of a few capitalists, who find opportunities for its investment very scarty or unsatisfactory. The banks have entered again upon a course of contraction, their loans being less by $626,994 than last week, which exceeds the increase that then appeared of $548,487, for the first time after a three months' weekly contraction. This contraction took place with an increase of $3,000,000 in specie, and of $4,176,763 in deposits, with a daily average of $19,500,000 specie—an average still growing, and of $7,500,000 of country current bonds.

"She moves, she moves?" the fore part of the vesset alipped, and the atern rushed down rapidly. It seemed to slip some three or four feet in the space of a couple of seconds, in consequence of the slack chain from the after drum offering not the slightest cheek. In an instant the strain came upon the drum, which was dragged round, and of course, as that was connected with the windlass by multiplying wheels, the latter turned some 10 or 15 times for every foot the drum moved. The mon at the windlass madly tried to hold it, but the heavy iron bandle flew round like lightning, striking them and hurling five or six high into the air as if they had been blown up by some powerful explosion. A panic scemed to spread as this shocking accident took place, and the men stationed at the tackle and all of the level next the windlass rushed away. Fortunately, most fortunately, for the lives of hundreds of the spectators, the men at the lever at the other side of the drum stood firm, and hanling on their tackle drew their lever up and applied the break on the drum with such terriffic force that the ship instantly stopped, though she seemed to quiaer under the sudden chesk as it she had received a heavy blow, and the check tackle and massive pile of timber which restrained the drums, strained audibly. The whole of this took place in the course of two or three seconds. The vessel dropped, the men were hurled from the windlass, and with a heavy rumbling noise, the tremendous structure was still on the "ways" again, almost before the spectator had time to imagine what had occurred. For a moment there was rather a panic, and a disposition to run from the spot, but it was only momentary. Four of the men who were injured were carried off to the Poplar Hospital at once, and a fifth, who seemed to have sustained some severe internal hurt, was afterwards obliged to be assisted from the yard. This melancholy occurrence seemed to exercise a most depressing effect, especially upon the workman, though the tremendous strain to which the dru Speciai Notices. DAILY TRIBUNE Notices. Drn Goods. (Frem the Losden Times, Nov. 4.)

Yesterday morning the first attempt was made to lower this colousal steamship at Mill-wall into the river. It was the first attempt, and only an attempt, for from one cause and another the effort to move her beyond a few feet totally falled, and the gigantic vessel, which ere this should have been a "monster of the deep," remains as firm, if not firmer than ever upon the river's banks.

For another month at least, if not for a longer period, the launch has been fixed as the earliest period on which the next effort can be made.

All took place before a quarter to I o'clock, and it was 2 before everything was again ready to move her still further down the ways. Before that time the weather, which at no period had been very favorable, became still worse, and the little drops of rain which had now and then fallen at short intervals gave place to a regular, steady drizzle, so that the public looked with unusual impatience to the launching efforts. At a few minutes after 2 o'clock the men were all again at their posts, and the signal was given to recommence. This time every precaution was taken to prevent a loop of slack in the chain again occurring. All the lighters from the river got their hauling tackle in order, and began to strain upon the vessel, but without making the least apparent impression. The tide was then within a few feet of its highest, and it became evident to all concerned that if the vessel was to be moved at all that day, no time was to be lost. Again from out of the dense mass of timber of the cradles came the little hissing noise at regular intervals which told that the enormous pressure of the hydraulic rams was found requisite to the the still in a spile of a light party record. taken away. Then, for the first time, the whole length of the vessel, from stem to stern, was visible without the slightest break. The graceful sweep of her lines, the clear sharp run of the bows and sweep of the stern could be appreciated at a glance. The last supports were not removed until every precaution had been taken to ascertain that she was securely stayed by her check tackle, and that there was no fear of her suddenly gliding down the "ways" and launching herself.

From the articles which have appeared in this journal our readers must be quite familiar

Less than Cost! Grand Rally of Cash Customers MILHON, Elegant Goods & Great Bargains ides of the nature of the tackle by which she was to be lowered into the water. It may, however, be as well to briefly mention again these mechanical appliances, and the manner in which each acted. First, then, on the river side four large lighters were moored in the tideway, and worked with crabe and sheaves upon the chains, which were fastened to the vessel amidships. Each of these four lighters was capable of applying a strain of 60 tons, all of which was to be used to draw the vessel down the launching ways in case of any contricting which might prevent her running. Two lighters were also moored at the stem and two at the stern of the vessel. The chains passing BOOK-CASES, SECRETARIES rams had been continued for some time, a rather loud crash was heard among the timbers of the foremost cradle, and some men ran from it. What it really was did not transpire, but it was nothing of importance. The stationary engine, which as we have mentioned, was put to haul upon the chains to the bows at last gave way, and the a chain itself snapped in two though not until some of the teeth of the wheels of the engine, as we are informed, had also broken before the strain. At the same time a pin in the piston rod of the foremest hydraulic ram, also gave way, and these two accidents were irreparable. The signal was made to cease hanling, and in a minute or so afterward the officials of the Company announced that the launch was over "for the day." The yard was then cleared of strangers, and as few were aware of what had really caused the failure of the attempt, the most extravagant rumors soon got affoat.
